Freshman Girl Dates Green Thumb to Geo. Washington Carver

REMEMBER our Green Thumb dissertation of some time back? About Mr. Mulloy, I believe it was, who asked if anybody could trace the phrase Green Thumb any farther back than 1925?

I honestly expected some of the old-timers to write in and give me a little history on the matter, but it remains for a girl to relate to me something of an early nature about the Green Thumb.

She's Janice Stiff of 319-B West Church street, and here is what she says to Timmo in a letter which is tidily-typed, well-spelled and perfectly-punctuated:

"I read your article in The Daily Register regarding Green Thumb. I am a freshman at the Harrisburg Township high school. I do not know the origin of the Green Thumb, but I do have information giving a date earlier than 1925 regarding this.

"In our literature book, Adventures in Reading, we have the story of George Washington Carver, one of this country's great men of science. This distinguished scientist was the son of a slave and was born in 1860 in the state of Missouri. It was George Washington Carver who discovered many ways of using productively plants like the peanut and the sweet potato that had heretofore been wasted with the result that he contributed to the better living of all of us.

"From the time George Washington Carver was virtually a baby in the woods, he wanted to know the name of every stone, insect, and flower he saw. His neighbors knew that he, as a child, had a magic way with growing things. They called him the Plant Doctor, and he made house-to-house calls in Diamond Grove where he lived to prescribe for ailing plants. If they were seriously ill, he took the plants away to his secret garden. There he would prune or knock out the soil and replace it with a better type of soil. He never lost a plant in his sanatorium. George Washington Carver did not know how it happened that he had a 'green thumb'.

"It was said of him that 'A childhood curiosity about growing things and a 'green thumb' started him on a long and distinguished career.'

"Honors of every kind were heaped upon him. Schools were named for him; medals and honorary degrees were bestowed upon him."

There, we've taken you through one of our Education Departments and you didn't realize it, did you? You can't beat these Education Departments in About Town and Country; you can get a correspondence course in different phases of education without putting out a dime.

WHILE GREEN THUMB is still the same subject, I ran across the Monthly Review put out by the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis and right there on the front cover, printed in green ink, was this title, Molecules with Green Thumbs.

It's just a chart article that follows:

"The use of chemicals on the farm has culminated in an agricultural revolution of grand dimensions. Chemicals have helped solve two age-old problems of the farm. Supplying basic plant nutrients has required the supplementing of earlier methods with chemical fertilizers. Crop insects, diseases, and weeds were attacked with chemicals long ago, but the 'miracle' pesticides have been a recent development.

"The entire story is not told alone in terms of the impact of chemistry on district agriculture. Industry is likewise affected and manufacturers develop new products, venture capital to produce them, and promote their acceptance by the farmer."

Romania Frees Two Brothers Held as Pawns

Sought to Force Naturalized Parents To Spy for Reds

WASHINGTON (AP)—Communist Romania has released two young brothers once used as pawns in a fantastic plot to blackmail their naturalized American parents into spying for the Reds.

The State Department announced today that the youths, Constantin Georgescu, 20, and Peter Georgescu, 15, were turned over to American authorities today at Munich, Germany. They were met there by their father, Valeriu C. Georgescu, New York, who had not seen them for seven years.

One of their first acts was to telephone their mother in New York. Mrs. Georgescu never had given up hope of seeing her sons again. As she once said, "I believe in God and I believe in my new country."

The State Department said the boys were freed as a result of a "long series" of diplomatic efforts in which President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles "took a personal interest."

Officials said no concessions were made to the Soviet satellite.

Stripped of Citizenship
The lads were left behind in their home country in 1947 when Georgescu, Romanian manager of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, came to New York with his wife on a business trip. While in this country, he was stripped of his citizenship by the Communists and decided to remain here and become an American citizen.

Romania then refused to let the two boys come to America. Last May the parents were approached by Christache Zambea, first secretary of the Romanian Legation in Washington, who hinted that their sons would be released from Romania if the parents would spy for the Reds.

The Georgescus rejected the offer and told the FBI all about it. Zambea was promptly expelled from the United States, and the State Department began putting diplomatic pressure on Romania to release the boys.

Radar Warning Net in Arctic To Cost Billion

WASHINGTON (AP)—The automatic radar warning net along the Arctic rim of North America will cost an estimated billion dollars and take until 1957 to complete, defense sources said today.

These sources recounted how former President Truman ordered the spade work in late 1952 which resulted in the program announced by the American and Canadian governments last Thursday.

Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson, issuing this government's statement, said that survey and sighting work in the Canadian-American venture "is already well advanced."

There was no indication just how the cost of the project would be allocated to the two countries.

Designed to give several hours warning of a Soviet air attack across the Polar cap, the system will extend over thousands of miles of frozen wasteland far north of Canada's settled areas. It will tie in with the present radar nets in Alaska, Greenland, and the "pine-tree chain" along the 54th parallel which splits British Columbia in the west and Labrador in the east.

Supplementing the ground stations will be radar-laden patrol planes. Automatic interception weapons, like the Air Force's F99 Bomarc jet fighter, can be hooked into the radar system which is designed not only for detection but for guiding interceptors as well.

J. B. Blackman, Former Mayor, Dies in Texas

Death Follows Paralytic Stroke; Rites Held Today

James B. Blackman, 82, a native of Saline county and a former mayor of Harrisburg, died Saturday at 10:40 a. m. in a hospital in San Antonio, Tex., following a paralytic stroke. He had had two light strokes previous to the third and fatal one Saturday.

Word of his death was received by his wife, Mrs. Olive J. Blackman, 224 West Poplar street, Saturday. She has been confined to her home for three years because of a broken hip, and was unable to attend his funeral, which was held today at 8 a. m. in San Antonio. The body was taken to Rock Springs, Tex., where burial took place and where a short graveside service was also held.

Mr. Blackman was a son of the late Calvin and Moriah Blackman of Stonefort. He had three sisters and two brothers who preceded him in death. It was the death of his brother, John G. Blackman, three years ago, which called him to San Antonio, where he had been occupied with settling the John G. Blackman estate. Prior to that he had been in the real estate business in Chicago. Most of the near-relatives live in Texas.

In his youth he taught school in Saline county, later engaging in the real estate business and becoming very active in politics in Saline county and in the 24th Congressional district.

In Harrisburg, he will be remembered as one of the organizers of the Saline Trust and Savings bank, forerunner of the present Harrisburg National bank. He served a term as mayor of Harrisburg in 1908.

A staunch Republican in politics, Mr. Blackman had held numerous public offices and was at one time a commissioner on the control board of the Southern Illinois Penitentiary at Menard. For many years he was a Republican leader in the 24th district and after going to Chicago he helped to organize the Southern Illinois Egyptian club, composed of former residents of this area. He continued to be active in this organization for a long time.

Mrs. Blackman was also a school teacher in her young womanhood. She is the former Olive Odum and was reared in Williamson county. Their only son, Champ, who served in World War I, is a patient in the Veterans' hospital at Danville, Ill. Mr. Blackman was a member of the Stonefort Masonic lodge of which he was past master. He was a member of the Eldorado I. O. O. F. lodge and of the Harrisburg Elks lodge. He was a Baptist by religious faith.

A nephew, Bond Blackman, Murphysboro, who is well known in Harrisburg and is a former resident of Stonefort, was at his bedside when he died and remained in Texas for the funeral service.

Order Draft of 140,000 More Men in Indochina

Action by Cabinet Coincides with French Counterattack

HANOI, Indochina (AP)—The newly formed Viet Nam war cabinet today ordered the drafting of 140,000 more men in a major win-the-war effort aimed at putting all able-bodied men under arms.

The cabinet's first action in drafting all men aged 20-25, announced in Saigon, coincided with a heavy counterattack by French Union forces from their foxholes at Dien Bien Phu in an effort to crush a threatened Communist assault.

It was the second heavy French counterattack of the weekend and came after the Reds made six futile efforts to drive French Union forces from a strategic hill overlooking Dien Bien Phu.

The cabinet, meeting under Premier Prince Bui Loc, estimated the draft would increase the Vietnamese army by 140,000. The gain will not be larger, officials said, because many young men already have volunteered.

Severe penalties were prescribed for draft dodgers but delinquents will have until April 30 to join up without sanction.

Bloody close-quarter fighting was in progress around the hill which overlooks both the besieged fortress and the Communist positions east of Dien Bien Phu. It is only half a mile from the French command headquarters.

It was the second big French Union counter-attack of the weekend. In the first Col. Christian De Castries sent tanks to the hill to save the French and loyal Vietnamese troops who had beaten back five battalion-size Communist attacks.

AMERICAN PILOTS ANGRY AT FRENCH REFUSAL TO STRAFE THE ENEMY

HONG KONG (AP)—American civilian fliers in Indochina are angry at French fighter pilots because they refuse to strafe Communist gun positions and therefore expose the Americans to heavy anti-aircraft fire, unimpeachable sources said today.

The Americans, civilians employed by Civil Air Transport, have been dropping supplies to the defenders of Dien Bien Phu from an altitude of 3,000 feet, informants arriving from Saigon said.

French fighter pilots are giving cover from a height of 12,000 feet, the sources said.

As a result of the lack of protection, the Americans have been forced to fly at an altitude too high for accuracy and many supplies intended for Dien Bien Phu have fallen into Red hands, the sources said.

Several GOP Races
There is no contest on the school trustee ballot, few contests on the Democratic ballot, and several on the Republican.

The Democratic ballot shows races only for county clerk, where incumbent Don B. Garrison and Earl M. Dabney are running, and for sheriff where there are four: Roy Ross Lane, James B. Woolard, Frank W. Bruce and William T. "Wee" Barrett.

It's a different story on the Republican side, where there are contests for eight of the 13 offices.

To begin with, nine seek the GOP nomination for U. S. senator to run against Paul Douglas in the fall. They are John B. Crane, Lar Daly, Edgar M. Elbert, Herbert F. Geisler, Edward A. Hayes, Julius Klein, Park Livingston, Joseph T. Meek and Austin L. Wyman. Deen Watson's name appears, but he isn't campaigning for himself in favor of Wyman several weeks ago.

Warren E. Wright, Conrad F. Becker and Robert J. Branson are in a race for the treasurer nomination and C. W. Bishop, Ray J. Hawkins, Jack D. Quarnant and

Actress Suzan Ball Discards Her Crutches, Weds

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP)—Actress Suzan Ball and actor Dick Long honeymooned today after a "happy ending" wedding that saw the bride discard her crutches at the last minute to limp down the aisle on a new artificial leg.

The beautiful actress held up the wedding 10 minutes Sunday while she tried out her new leg in the minister's study.

Then she decided not to use the crutches, which were wrapped in white satin. She walked, slowly and with a limp, to the altar of the El Monticito Presbyterian church while 1,200 spectators outside applauded and 200 guests inside, including Jeff Chandler, Julia Adams and Mala Powers, smiled and wept.

"It's the most wonderful thing in the world to walk again," said Suzan after the 10-minute ceremony as the couple prepared to motor to northern California for a week's honeymoon.

"It was my love for my husband that made me walk. I owe it all to him," she said.

Her leg was amputated last Jan. 12. A knee injury had developed into a cancer and the malignancy dictated the operation.

Sen. Criswold of Nebraska Dies After Heart Attack

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Dwight Criswold (R-Neb.) died early today at Bethesda Naval hospital after suffering a heart attack. He was 60 and a veteran of Nebraska politics.

Griswold, who was stricken while driving home from a dinner party, had played golf earlier Sunday. He was rushed to the Bethesda hospital, but died at about 12:15 a. m. EST.

A former governor of Nebraska, he came to the Senate in January, 1953, to fill out the term of the late Sen. Kenneth S. Wherry (R-Neb.).

Mrs. Griswold, the former Erma Elliott whom he married in 1919, was at his bedside when the end came.

Griswold's death leaves the Senate political line with 46 Republicans, 48 Democrats and independent. The present Nebraska governor, Robert C. Crosby, is a Republican and it was expected he would appoint a Republican to fill the vacancy.

Predict Light Vote in Illinois Primary Tuesday

CHICAGO (AP)—Voter interest was reported light today in Illinois' primary election, first in the nation this year, despite a nine-man race for the Republican nomination for U. S. senator.

Democratic and Republican party leaders both predicted the turnout would be relatively small, perhaps as low as 1,500,000. Cook county alone has more than 2,500,000 registered voters.

Democrats had little to attract them to the polls. Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.) is unopposed for renomination and there are no major contests for Cook county offices.

On the Republican side, even a nine-man field in the GOP senatorial contest—an all-time record number of candidates—failed to stir unusual interest.

Downstate Congressman Rep. Harold Velde (R-Ill.), chairman of the House Un-American Activities committee, was facing serious primary challenge from a veteran state legislator.

In the senatorial race, and other contests with more than two candidates, the man with the most votes will be declared winner even though he fails to win a majority.

With the campaigning almost over, most observers believed that only five of the nine Senate hopefuls had serious chances for victory. They are Austin L. Wyman, Joseph T. Meek, Edward A. Hayes, Park Livingston and Julius Klein.

Administration is Urged to Spell Out Indochina Policy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Lister Hill urged the administration today to spell out its Indochina policy so Democrats and Republicans can unite to strengthen the President's "hand and voice" in the crisis.

"The Alabama Democrat said the nation should be told everything 'within the limits of security and prudence' to be sure it is fully aware of the serious threat to world peace."

The "wisdom of taking Congress and the American people into partnership" in foreign affairs, he said was demonstrated when former Sen. Tom Connally (D-Tex.) and the late Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg (R-Mich.) headed the Foreign Relations committee.

He said in a statement that the "greatest possible bipartisan united action" by both major parties is essential now to enhance the authority of the President when he "speaks and acts for the United States."

Hill spoke out amid mounting congressional pressure, mostly from Democrats, for President Eisenhower to tell the nation bluntly what must be done and what risks are involved in Southeast Asia.

Understanding May Be Objected To By France

Foreign Secretaries Agree to No 'Sell Out' or 'Appeasement'

LONDON (AP)—United States Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden agreed today there can be no cease-fire in Indochina without a political settlement, informed sources said.

The understanding, which may meet objections in France, was said to be the first fruits of Dulles' flying trip to Europe. He is seeking to get Britain and France to agree on a unified plan to block further Red Chinese intervention in Indochina.

The two foreign secretaries, in their second meeting of the day, also were said to be in agreement that there could be no "appeasement" or "sell out" to the Communists in Southeast Asia.

Eden had consulted with Prime Minister Winston Churchill before his second conference with Dulles.

France was openly cool to Dulles' proposal for a stern warning to Red China against getting more deeply involved in Indochina.

Third Conference Tuesday
Leftwing Laborites in the British House of Commons were raising cries of suspicions against the talks going on only a few doors away in Whitehall.

Dulles' second meeting with Eden lasted two hours and 10 minutes. It was announced a third conference will be held Tuesday in a further attempt by the American secretary to get Britain to go along with a firm policy.

After his third meeting with Eden, Dulles is scheduled to fly to Paris on a similar mission to France.

At their morning meeting Dulles and Eden sidetracked their discussion of Indochina to discuss the explosive situation in the Holy Land.

They turned to the Middle East to talk over the increasingly serious dispute between Israel and Arab Jordan that is causing "mounting anxiety" in Western capitals.

Discuss Reply to Russia
Israel and Jordan have both made increasingly bitter charges and counter-charges during the past several weeks as border incidents have increased. The whole dispute is before the United Nations.

Dulles and Eden also discussed the West's reply to the Soviet Union's April 1 note in which Russia offered to join NATO.

As Dulles and Britain's top diplomat began their talks, Laborites demanded that Eden stand firm against American pressure.

The morning meeting with Eden was the first of two sessions with the foreign secretary scheduled by Dulles. They meet again in the afternoon and tonight Dulles has a dinner date with Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

On his arrival Sunday Dulles said at the airport that the Indochina situation "is a danger to both our countries, as well as to others."

After his meetings with Eden and Churchill, Dulles will fly to Paris Tuesday for urgent consultations with French officials on Indochina.

Before Dulles went to the Foreign Office to begin his talks with Eden, Pravda, the communist Party newspaper, charged that Dulles was trying to seize from France the command of the Indochina war.

DREW PEARSON Says: Dulles and Radford Startle Legislators With Indo-China Plans; Democrats And Republicans Insist French-British Be Consulted; Suggest Leaders Return With Joint Chiefs' Backing.

WASHINGTON. — How near the United States has been to full-scale intervention, or even war in Indo-China, was emphasized at a secret meeting between Secretary of State Dulles and Adm. Arthur Radford with top congressional leaders of both political parties.

At the conference, the two administration leaders proposed two moves which startled Republican congressmen as much as the Democrats. The two moves were:

1. By Admiral Radford — to send four airplane carriers from the Philippines to lie off the Indo-Chinese coast and bomb the Reds; also to use long-range bombers based on the Philippines to blast Red supply lines and munitions bases.

2. By Secretary Dulles — adoption of a joint resolution by Congress to giving the President blanket authority to do anything he deemed advisable to prevent Indo-China from going Communist.

Justification for these two drastic proposals was based upon the stark seriousness of the Allied position in Indo-China, where it is feared part of the French forces may be annihilated and where it's feared the rest of the French forces may pull out.

Admiral Radford was not hopeful about the fortress of Dien Bien Phu. He reported that Communist antiaircraft batteries were deadly accurate and were shooting down most of French and American planes flying lower than 11,000 feet.

Also the fort is so small that it is difficult to parachute supplies into such a small perimeter with any degree of accuracy, and much of the parachuted supplies fall outside the fortress into Communist hands.

ANOTHER KOREA?? Democratic reaction to the Dulles-Radford request for congressional support for possible war in Indo-China was summed up by Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, the Democratic leader.

"Time after time I have had to listen to my Republican colleague," he said, looking at GOP leader William Knowland of California, "tell us about the Korean war and how it started under the Democrats. Now it appears we are faced with another Korea."

"Yes, and we have had to listen to the Republicans call us the party of treason," added Congressman John McCormack of Boston. "Our patriotism was impugned at a time when we all should have been united against communism instead of fighting and condemning each other. I doubt therefore if it would be very easy to get many Democrats to vote for this resolution."

Senator Russell of Georgia, another Democrat, was critical of the fact that the British and our other western allies had not yet been consulted about cooperating with us.

"Do you mean to say that you are asking Congress for such broad authority without an agreement from the French and British that they will join with us?" Russell asked in brief.

Knowland of California, Republican leader of the Senate, was equally skeptical. He was just as emphatic as the Democrats that Congress must be advised on how far our allies are willing to go before any blanket resolution was even submitted to Congress.

FRENCH LOSING BRIGHT Secretary Dulles brought out the fact that the French were offering more independence today to the three Indo-Chinese states than those same states had requested five years ago when they asked for commonwealth status. However, the three states are now demanding complete independence which is more than the French are willing to give and still stay in the fight.

On the other hand, the three states can hardly settle for less than complete independence as long as Ho Chi Minh is offering complete "independence" under the Red banner.

Dulles mentioned in passing that the governments of the three independent states were unstable. Radford pointed out that if his plan for immediate intervention were adopted we would go into Indo-China at the invitation, and with the cooperation of, the three independent states.

Admiral Radford, summarizing the military situation, said that the French had lost heart for the war. He made it clear he did not favor sending American ground troops into Indo-China, only U. S. air and naval forces. They could be pulled out in a hurry.

Asked by Senator Clements of Kentucky whether other members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff concurred in Radford's ideas of using bombers and carriers, Radford admitted frankly that they didn't. It developed that all three Joint Chiefs of Staff were opposed to immediate intervention.

Several of the Democrats reminded Dulles and Radford that President Truman had got a united recommendation from the Joint Chiefs of Staff regarding Korea and then had assumed responsibility. He did not ask for a blank check from Congress first.

CHIANG'S TROOPS? Congressman Percy Priest of Tennessee wanted to know why Chiang Kai-Shek's troops were not brought to Indo-China from Formosa, especially since the Republicans, during and before the election campaign, had made such an issue of using Chiang's troops.

But Admiral Radford, who was among those who previously advocated the use of Chiang's forces, said that if Chiang's troops were removed from Formosa, it would be necessary for the United States to protect Formosa.

The question was also raised about President Syngman Rhee's offer to send one division of South Korean troops, but Radford flatly stated that Korean troops were needed at home.

It was finally suggested by congressional leaders of both political parties that Secretary Dulles and Admiral Radford should come back to Capitol Hill with a "full package" if they wanted favorable action. In other words, they should get a unanimous recommendation by the Joint Chiefs of Staff; also a full agreement with England and France regarding their cooperation.

Only light touch during the two-and-a-half hour session was when some of the markers began falling off the map of Indo-China. Admiral Radford had brought a top-secret map showing the location of French forces in Indo-China; and for some reason, probably the heat of the room, the glue on the markers got soft and they began falling. "I don't know whether this is prophetic or not," remarked Percy Priest of Tennessee, "but we are losing a lot of positions."

When washing flannels, add a teaspoon of powdered borax to each quart of rinse water to keep the material soft.

6-Day C&M Rail Strike Ends

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Chicago & Illinois Midland trainmen today were expected to return to work after a settlement of a six-day strike that idled the railroad and three coal mines.

The railroad and the independent Brotherhood of Firemen and Enginemen came to terms over working rules disagreements Saturday night. Members of the brotherhood went on strike and other trainmen had observed their picket lines.

The C&M is a coal hauling line running through Pekin, Taylorville, Springfield, Havana and Peoria. It carries coal from Peabody mines 8 and 10 near Taylorville and 17 at Pana. The coal is loaded on barges at Peoria for the Commonwealth Edison Co., furnishing power to Chicago and much of northern Illinois.

Supreme Court Refuses to Review Ruling on NLRB

WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor unions may not be deprived of National Labor Relations Board services merely because the board thinks a union officer has filed a false non-Communist affidavit.

But the union may be denied such services if the Justice Department obtains a conviction against a union officer who files a false affidavit.

This was the effect of a Supreme Court action today. The tribunal, in a brief order without written opinion, refused to review a lower court ruling that the board itself has not authority to challenge the truthfulness of a non-Communist oath.

The court acted at a brief session before recessing until April 26. It did not rule on the public school segregation cases. Justice Robert H. Jackson was absent from the bench. He is recovering from a mild heart attack.

Stevenson Undergoes Kidney Operation

CHICAGO (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson today underwent a "successful operation" that removed a kidney stone.

Doctors at Passavant hospital said they removed a stone from the left ureter.

William McCormick Blair Jr., administrative assistant to the 1952 Democratic presidential nominee, said the surgeons believed Stevenson's recovery will be uneventful. "He'll probably be released from the hospital sometime next week," Blair said.

Stevenson underwent similar surgery in June of 1952 just before his selection as a presidential nominee and while he was still governor of Illinois.

U. S. Condemns Red China for Brutal Kidnaping

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The United States condemned Communist China in the United Nations today for the "brutal kidnaping" of two American newsmen and a ship's captain a year ago and called on the Peiping government to set them free.

Preston Hotchkis, American delegate to the U. N. economic and social council, also called on the Chinese Reds to free 30 other Americans held in their jails.

The new U. S. move came as dispatches from Hong Kong reported that the two newsmen and the ship captain seized with them were being questioned in Peiping by Chinese and Russian intelligence agents.

Hotchkis said the capture of the three—Richard Applegate, 38, of

Dodgers and Red Sox Win Grapefruit Title; Yanks, Phillies Finish at Bottom

By United Press

The Dodgers and Red Sox were crowned the Grapefruit League champions today, while the Yankees and Phillies wound up with the "booby prizes" for finishing at the bottom of the heap.

Brooklyn, which won the National League's spring title with a record of 23 exhibition victories and 11 defeats for a .676 percentage, concluded the training grind with a 5-2 victory over the Yankees Sunday.

Jackie Robinson batted in three runs and Gil Hodges, the other two as the Yankees finished their poorest spring in years with a record of 15 victories (including seven against minor league clubs), 19 defeats and a .441 mark that earned them last place in the American League's citrus standings.

The Red Sox, who won the league crown with 18 victories and 12 defeats for a .600 percentage, wound up their spring affairs with a 5-2 triumph over Milwaukee. Jackie Jensen led the Boston assault with three hits, including a homer.

Despite a 1-0 decision over their city rivals, the Athletics, Steve O'Neill's Phillies showed undisputed possession of last place in the National League with a 12-20 spring record and a .375 mark. O'Neill was cheered, however, by the pitching of rookie Paul Penson, Bob Miller and Steve Ridzik, who limited the Athletics to three hits.

Baltimore Beats Cardinals

Mickey Vernon drove in five runs with a homer, double and a single to give the Senators a 9-2 triumph over the Pirates at Washington. Mickey McDermott went the first seven innings for Washington, yielding only one run on two hits. Even with the loss, Pittsburgh finished second in the standings behind Brooklyn.

Nino Escalera's three-run homer with two out in the eighth inning snapped a 5-5 tie and helped Cincinnati to an 8-5 triumph over Detroit, as both the Tigers and Red Sox wound up fifth in their respective circuits.

The Cubs rallied for eight runs in the fourth inning to defeat the White Sox. Hal Jeffcoat, the converted outfielder, made his second appearance on the mound this spring and was credited with the victory. Hank Sauer and Dee Fondy each homered for the Cubs.

Jimmy Dykes' Baltimore Orioles wound up second in the A. L. by beating the St. Louis Cardinals, 7-3, while the Giants, who finished fourth in their circuit, took a 10-inning 5-4 decision from Cleveland. The Indians took sixth place in the A. L.

New Baseball Pension Plan

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Two major league baseball bigwigs drew most of the credit today for helping to set up a new pension plan that eventually may reward retired players up to $450 a month.

The new agreement was reached Sunday during an all-day meeting between player representatives and owners, at which General Manager Hank Greenberg of the Cleveland Indians, himself a former player, and President John W. Galbreath of the Pittsburgh Pirates played the leading roles.

They were called into the meeting following a morning session which ended with both parties deadlocked over two major points of the pension program—the length of the current plan and the restriction of active players on the four-man pension board.

Finally Greenberg and Galbreath came up with new agreements acceptable to both sides. The players won a partial victory when it was agreed to continue the present plan after 1961, but bowed to the owners, who argued that only active players could be spokesmen.

Also, it was agreed that the pension treasury, beginning in 1956, will receive 60 per cent of the gross gate receipts from the All-Star game, and a like percentage of the television receipts from the All-Star game and the World Series.

J. Norman Lewis, lawyer-spokesman for the players, cheered the new contract, which he said would probably bring "in excess" of between $300 and $450 per month for retired players. The present maximum is $100 a month for players with 10 years of major league experience.

Hogan and Snead In Playoff for Masters Title

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Their game wasn't as steady as usual but old pros Ben Hogan and Sam Snead were shooting for the Masters golf crown today in a special playoff minus the real star of the event — Billy Jo Patton.

Patton, who for a fleeting moment defied the tradition that amateurs and holes-in-one can't win major golf titles, faded to wind up just a stroke back of Snead and Hogan, who finished with shaky 289's.

But the stakes are also the highest ever for the playoff. The winner gets $5,000 and the runnerup $3,000.

Hal Newhouser Receives Contract With Indians

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Hal Newhouser finally was awarded that white piece of paper today for which he had pitched his heart out all spring—a formal Cleveland Indian contract.

The 32-year-old southpaw, who was released last summer after 15 seasons with the Detroit Tigers, accepted a huge cut from the estimated $25,000 contract he worked for last year, but he was more than happy to sign.

Taken to the Indians' training site at Tucson, Ariz., on a "look" basis this spring, Newhouser overcame a shaky start to limit the opposition to one earned run in his last 13 innings. More important was the fact that he claimed his left shoulder didn't hurt him any longer.

MANGER STOPS BOSSY COWS

Upright pipes, embedded at the base in concrete and braced at the top, make it impossible for bossy cows to crowd along the manger just to sample and slobber over feeds. Two Ohio farmers think such a manger is ideal for feeding chopped hay, relates Capper's Farmer. Hay, stored in a loft above is pushed to openings that spill it into the 3-foot-deep manger. It saves both feed and labor.

Merchants Beat Ramblers, 6-4, In Tenth Inning

The Harrisburg Merchants staged an uphill battle to down the Nash Ramblers by a 6 to 4 count Sunday afternoon at the park diamond to cap both games of the two-game city series. The contest went ten innings before it was decided in favor of the Merchants who scored twice in the first half of the tenth frame to break a 4-4 deadlock.

"Lefty" Kennedy of the Merchants and "Kiki" Parker of the Ramblers hurled excellent ball and but for a couple of miscues would have kept the scoring down even more. Kennedy was tagged for four consecutive singles after retiring the first two men in the opening inning as the Ramblers scored twice. Don Karnes started the fireworks as he drilled a single to center to be followed by singles by Thompson, Harrison and Fulkerson.

That was all the scoring until the sixth when the Merchants racked up a brace of tallies on a single by McNew, a walk to Parton, a double by Bob Williams and walks to Romonosky and Gullett. The Ramblers bounced back with two more runs in the last of the sixth to take a 4-2 lead when Fulkerson was safe on a fielder's choice after er forcing out Harrison at second who had drawn a life when the shortstop juggled his grounder. With Fulkerson on first, Vinson was hit by a pitched ball and Parker walked to load the sacks. Stepleton dropped a single into center to score Fulkerson and Vinson with the Ramblers' final run.

The winners added a single marker in the seventh on a double by Dunbar and a single by Parton. The tying run crossed in the eighth as Gullett rifled a single to left, advanced on an overthrow at first and scored as Logsdon drilled a single into left field.

The winning runs came across in the first of the tenth as Fred Williams walked, advanced to third on Logsdon's single and scored on McNew's sacrifice fly to right. After Dunbar walked, Parton bashed out his third single of the afternoon to bring Logsdon across with the game's final run.

Frankie Logsdon and Bob Parton paced the winners' bat attack with three safeties each. Bill McNew, Dunbar and Bob Williams each had a pair of safe blows. Don Karnes and Bill Fulkerson garnered two safeties each to pace the losers at bat.

Parker went the route for the losers with "Donie" Wilson doing the catching. Kennedy pitched until the ninth with Bill McNew taking over at that point for the winners with Romonosky doing the receiving.

Next Sunday the Merchants will play at Carmi, playing the Epworth team which is a member of the independent Ill.-Ind. League this year.

Cardinals Waive Enos Slaughter To the Yankees

Popular St. Louis Player Is Bitter; Says Will Do His Best

NEW YORK (U.P.)—Enos (Country) Slaughter, waived on by all National league clubs—partly because of his $28,000 salary and partly because he will be 38 in two weeks—was warmly welcomed by the Yankees today for "pinch-hitting duties" and "protection against Mickey Mantle's shaky knee."

Slaughter, an old fixture with the Cardinals for 13 years, was obtained by the Yankees Sunday night in a "no-cash" waiver deal that caused him to sob unashamedly in disappointment.

"I didn't think it would ever happen to me," he said, wiping away the tears in the Cardinal front office where he was told of the deal.

"It's the greatest shock I've ever had in my life," he added. "To think that I spent nearly all my life with this organization and then they trade me after I've given them everything I've got."

"But I'll say this," he said bitterly. "I'll be around when a lot of guys they got now will be gone. And you can tell Casey Stengel that I'll give him everything just like I gave this club. . . . Tell him I'll be in Washington for the opening game. But I just can't believe it. I wanted to be a Cardinal to the finish."

August A. Busch Jr., owner of the Cardinals, wished Slaughter the best of luck as did Manager Eddie Stanky.

Explaining the deal with the Yankees, Busch said, "We wanted some of their younger players." He added that the Cardinals were forced to make room for younger players of their own, presumably rookie outfielders Wally Moon and Joe Frazier.

Sixth Star Waived
National League officials, including Branch Rickey of the Pirates and Bob Carpenter of the Phillies, admitted they waived on the stocky Cardinal veteran because he didn't fit into their "youth movement."

Slaughter, whom Busch described as "one of the greatest players in the history of the St. Louis Cardinals," was the sixth National leaguer to be obtained by the Yankees in as many years. Previously they had obtained Johnny Mize, Johnny Hopp, Johnny Sain, Johnny Schmitz and Ewell Blackwell in late-season deals.

To get the hustling, lefthanded hitting Slaughter, the Yankees gave up, in the words of co-owner Dan Topping, "practically no one."

They turned over righthander Mel Wright, who pitched with Kansas City of the American Association last year, to the Cardinals in addition to two unidentified minor league players who will be delivered by Tuesday. The Yankees also promised to option another minor leaguer to either Columbus of the American Association or Rochester of the International league, both St. Louis farms.

The deal was the second one con-

Interpret Rules On Hook and Line, Trot Line Licenses

Horace Richey, state conservation investigator for Saline county, today reported he had received from state headquarters in Springfield an interpretation of hook and line and trot line licenses.

Many in the area, he said, had been confused as to which license would be needed.

The interpretation, by J. H. Fitzgerald, chief inspector, said: The department's policy is to license the individual covering hook and line licenses and he may fish up to 50 hooks, in the aggregate of all legal devices.

The department is licensing the device, and not the individual, covering a trot line license, and whether there are 51 hooks, or 5,000 hooks, if it is all only one line, he is liable for the purchase of one license only. If the devices are divided to such an extent that there may be 60 hooks on one line and 75 hooks on another line, and such lines are not attached, they will be classed as separate devices, and, therefore, each device will require a separate license. These devices are regarded as commercial devices.

Bob Beal Wins First in Shot in Mineral Area Meet

Bob Beal, bulky senior, scored the only points for Harrisburg in the Mineral Area Track and Field meet at Hurst Saturday. But he scored a first place in the shot put to give the locals five points for the meet.

Beal's winning distance was 46 feet, 11 1/2 inches.

The meet was won by Lincoln of East St. Louis with Centralia second. Twenty-eight schools were entered.

Two new records were broken. Lincoln of East St. Louis ran the mile relay in 3:36.2, knocking 10 seconds off the old mark. Bob Pittch, who ran for Equality last year and is living at Virden now, broke the mile record with 4:33.6 but was only a stride ahead of Watkins of Mounds Douglass, who won the half mile in 2:03.6.

Eldorado scored six points, with a third, fourth and fifth place finish.

Mackovjak placed third in the discus throw. Sutton was fifth in the 440-yard dash and the varsity relay team of Dodd, Gwaltney, Barrett and Sutton came in fourth. Harrisburg's next track venture will be against Fairfield here tomorrow afternoon.

Baseball Openers Tuesday to Attract Eisenhower and Mr. Average Citizen

NEW YORK (U.P.)—If you plan to look for the President of the United States or Mr. Average Citizen Tuesday, try the local ball park.

They're both fixing to be there for the gala opening of the 1954 major league baseball season. President Eisenhower, an old outfielder himself, will throw out the first ball at Washington where the Senators play host to the world champion Yankees, while other fans will toss away workday worries to begin rooting for the home team all over again.

Officials of both the American and National league are talking optimistically of increased attendance and "tight pennant races." The fact that the Yankees and Dodgers are favored to meet in their third straight World Series next fall is being blithely ignored by 14 other hopeful clubs.

Estimate 220,000 Fans
On the eve of the season's inaugural, hope beats especially strong in the cities of Baltimore and Milwaukee.

Baltimore, stirred up by its first American league entry since 1902, already is predicting big things for the Orioles, even if they are only a thin disguise of the bedraggled 1953 St. Louis Browns. There is certain to be an attendance boom for the Orioles in their remodeled Municipal Stadium which will eventually seat 54,000.

And in Milwaukee, there's talk of the Braves' overtaking the Dodgers, and a confident prediction that the attendance for 1954 will surpass the two million mark.

An estimated total of 220,000 fans are expected to watch opening games on eight different big league fronts and that figure could be appreciably higher if mild, sunny weather prevails.

The top three crowds are expected at Detroit, New York and Cincinnati, although Washington may edge its way in.

20,000 to Welcome Cardinals
More than 35,000 fans may file into Briggs Stadium to see the Detroit Tigers play the Orioles, while the Giants and Dodgers could equal that total—or even go higher—when they participate in the curtain-raiser at the Polo Grounds.

Cincinnati anticipates its usual opening day sellout of 30,000 to see summated by the two clubs since the start of spring training. Pitcher Vic Raschi was sold to the Red Sox last month but both teams denied that the Slaughter transaction was a part of the Raschi deal.

Pirate Outfielder Wins Grapefruit

NEW YORK (U.P.)—Outfielder Frank Thomas of the Pittsburgh Pirates won the Grapefruit league home run derby with 12. Jim Greengrass of Cincinnati and Rudy Regalado, Cleveland's star rookie, tied for second with nine each.

Some of the best ways to beat the cost-price squeeze, says Capper's Farmer, are (1) to produce more bushels per acre, (2) resolve to build a feed reserve, (3) cut feed costs, (4) save more pigs per sow, (5) keep hogs cool this summer, (6) cut fuel costs by keeping tractor tuned up, (7) buy less non-essentials, and (8) hold debts to a minimum, but don't pinch pennies when it comes to fertilizer and good seed.

KILL WITH CARE

Copyright © Hugh Lawrence Nelson. Distributed by HLA Service, Inc.

THE STORY: An extortion plot has resulted in the murder of a policeman in Colorado City, but the real "brains" behind the plan has not been found. Chief Drover was stabbed when he started to investigate the case. Later the body of a mental defective, Eddie Stone, the mayor's son, was found beside a confession to the killing at a spot where extortion victims left their money. Also the son of Acting Chief Hughes seemed to be involved, but he cannot be found for questioning, since young Tony Hughes is in Denver.

XVIII

Margaret Hughes sat alone in the living room when they returned there. "Mr. Hughes went home for some things for us. Naturally we're going to stay. To be with Ed when he wakes up. He—he'll need us."

"It's good of you," Richards said sincerely. "I wonder if you could tell us anything about the upstairs tenant?"

"Mr. Nash, isn't it? I don't know much about him. He works nights."

"There's a back entrance to this flat."

"Yes. Go through the kitchen. Holders, a back stairway and a small landing. For garbage disposal, meters and things such as that."

"Do you happen to know if Eddie Stone was in the habit of going in and out the back way?" Mark Richards asked.

"I don't know," she answered, "but from my knowledge of boys, I'd say it was highly probable."

Mark led the way through the kitchen, out the back door to the small landing. He mounted the steep stairway to the upper landing and a locked door, came down again and directed his flashlight downward.

"We'd better go around and ring for old Mansfield before we go down," he decided. "I saw a light in his front room when I came in this time. He's quite a character, Jim. Won't speak to local people."

Margaret Hughes stood at the head of the inside stairway and watched them go. This time Jim felt no strange movement of the treads under his feet.

Richards pushed Gaylord Mansfield's bell. The door popped open, and a gnomelike man, whose face fell in on itself in folds, stood there holding a white placard so the porch light would fall on it.

The placard read, "What do you want?"

"Good morning, Mr. Mansfield," Mark Richards said as if this early hour was his usual time for calling. "Wonder if we could talk to you for a short time?"

Mansfield hesitated, pulled an expensive brocade dressing gown closer around him. He turned, led the way through the entrance hall into a large, almost bare room. There was a huge flat-topped desk piled with papers. There was a single chair. There was an inconspicuous telephone resting on a corner of the desk.

Mansfield took the single chair, pulled a clean sheet of good quality bond paper from a freshly open ream, and wrote rapidly. The movement of the old-fashioned steel pen, its thudding trips to a hitherto concealed inkwell, spoke of petulance.

"No matter the time of day or night I set aside for work, there are always inconsiderate interruptions. Please be brief."

His handwriting was small, neat, and entirely legible, though slightly old-fashioned like the pen he used.

"Have you heard of the death of Eddie Stone?" Mark asked.

Gaylord Mansfield leaned over and wrote, "Yes, Radio."

"Then you have heard the circumstances, of the extortion attempts?"

Mansfield wrote, "Attempts? I heard on the radio many had paid off. Fools. I had a letter—and a phone call. I could not be bothered. Certainly I have other uses for my money. I destroyed the letter, ignored the phone call. I have my work!" He looked up at them pointedly.

"What time was set for your pay-off?" Mark asked.

"Eight-fifty. But I did not go."

"And you did not keep the letter?"

Mansfield pushed the sheet of paper on which he had written nearer to Mark. There was a sign of growing irritation in the gesture.

Jim Dunn saw the piles of papers on the desk were all filled with the same neat handwriting. So many piles of sheets! How many days or hours of solitary work did they represent?

"One thing more," Richards said, "and then we'll leave you to your work, with an apology for the interruption. We want to know about the back stairs. There is a way out to the alley?"

Mansfield nodded.

"Was Eddie Stone in the habit of using that back way?"

Again the nod.

"Could you tell us if he went out that way last evening?"

Mansfield had to write again. "I could not tell you. The boy was in and out a thousand times a day. I ignore the noise he makes."

"Nothing about Eddie Stone you could tell us? Nothing that would help?"

Gaylord Mansfield shook his head, looked pointedly at his worktable, got up and showed them to the door.

"What's the matter with him?" Jim demanded when they were out in the cool air.

"Won't talk to local people," Richards said. "Oh, he can talk if he wants to, but he doesn't. I've heard he had some sort of disagreement with Colorado City folks long ago, and won't speak to any of them."

"Why the phone then? It wouldn't help much to hold up cards in front of it."

"A dial phone," Richards said. "He wouldn't have to talk to the operator."

"Wouldn't he talk when he got his number?" Jim persisted.

Mark Richards yawned.

Brownell Hits Plan to Outlaw Communist Party

Says Legality of Legislation Doubtful; Would Hamper FBI

WASHINGTON — Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell today opposed legislative proposals to outlaw the Communist Party and make membership a crime.

Brownell said such legislation involves "constitutional doubts," would "force the Communist movement underground," and increase the already difficult investigatory job of the FBI.

Brownell told the House Judiciary Committee that after enactment of such legislation it probably would take "at least several years" before a final court ruling on its constitutionality.

Furthermore, he added, the idea that such legislation would mean the quick conviction of a large number of Communists is a "false impression." This job would be a "tremendous task," he said.

In presenting the administration's position on such legislation for the first time, Brownell outlined the government's own proposals to deal with the Communist threat as he presented them Friday night in a television broadcast.

Last Recommendations

"The sum total of our present laws, plus the early enactment of the measures recommended by the administration, make up a comprehensive and effective program to destroy the Communist menace," he said.

These recommendations are: That labor unions or industrial organizations under domination of Communists and in a position to damage national security be required to register under the Internal Security Act; permit removal from defense-important industries employees who "because of their sympathies and associations cannot safely be permitted access to such industries;" broadening of sabotage laws; extension of the statute of limitations from three to five years in the case of non-capital offenses; make wire-tap evidence admissible in prosecution in national security cases; peacetime espionage be made punishable by death; penalties for harboring fugitives be increased; and loss of citizenship for Americans convicted under the Smith Act of conspiring to advocate the overthrow of the government by force or violence.

Strike Through Smith Act

Brownell said that if membership in the party alone is made criminal, "to require a member to declare his membership is to require him to give self-incriminating evidence."

This would jeopardize the operation of the Internal Security Act unless "there is added a grant of immunity so broad as to vitiate wholly the legislation now proposed," he said.

Among the administration's proposals is one that immunity from prosecution be granted witnesses
